

Quotes of the Month

“The world needs to know that God's eternal, extravagant love is not part of the gospel. It is the whole gospel...God will run and embrace even His most wayward child. All will be healed. All will be forgiven. All will be reconciled...Death does not have the final word. God has the final word; a word of redeeming grace.”

(James Mulholland)

According to Christian understanding, the Redeemer is no other than the Creator. He would contradict Himself if He were not to redeem everything He has made.
